MIDSUMMER FUNCTIONS BRING OUT SMART SUITS IN TWO MATERIALS.

THE HAT OF THE ITALIAN Bersigliere.

New York, Aug. ?.—Have you seen the new suits in two materials? They are quite the rage, with their jaunty, flaring coats in one, and swagger skirts in another material which is totally different. To see them, one must take a run down to Long Beach some afternoon, or slip over to Newport and stroll by the Casino in the morning. They are worth seeing, as they come now fresh from Paris and are worn by New York's smart society. It is an

The skirt was of fine white serge, a bit scantier in width than the usual run of things, with a strip of broad white Hercules braid at the side seam. With this, she wore a broad, straight-brimmed, blue chiffon salor, with a scarf of the chiffon edged with beads for trimming, dubbed, for its keen resemblance, the "Boy Scout."

We hear from Paris that the idea of two materials in one suit will be carried out in checked and plain, and striped and plain worsteds; already

They are worth scelag, as they come to make the they may are worth scelag. It is an opportunity of a lifetime. Never has such style been displayed on our own shores. They only wait—these fash ionable people, politely bored by the binings at home—for the war to cease that they may winter or summer, as chance may be, on the other side of the great Atlantic Now the modes are brought to them. If they cannot be at Monte Carlo, Trouville or D'Eauville, they will at least wear here what they would have worn there.

Blue and White Serges, Checks and Worsteds in Combination.

Paris' first venture for the fall is accepted with open arms on this side of the Atlantic. Perchance, it is because her venture in suits, for Paris knows will the Atlantic. Perchance, it is because her venture in suits, for Paris knows will the Atlantic. Perchance, it is because her venture in suits, for Paris knows or the strictly tailored. It's a clever idea, this showing of jaunty little jacket-suits before plunging into long coult and heavy skires for cold weather. The serges are especially summer, as they appear in combinations of blue and white. Most noticeable was a suit worn by one of a party of ladies at Long Beach last Sunday—

In the presistance appeared a day or so ago at the Ambassadure wearing not only the bersigliere hat with its flowing cock's plume at the side, but its also a frock of Tyrolian-striped taffets, with a short, plain, surplice corsage in Italian green silk."

The mode has remained somber already too long. This is evident in the successories that are being shown with the mid-summer suits. Handbags are especially frivolens. Not only to they appear in brilliant alliks with gate-tops, but leather bags, too, tend decidedly toward fancy effects. White kid in favored, alone or in combination with black and white striped in the Atlantic. Perchance, it is because for the strictly tailored. presentative of Cotton Mille Be Bottom Has Boon Roschod.

The bankers and cotton buyers of he South are ultraconservative in buying cotton, and it is this conserva tism that largely influences buying in the North," said H. B. Bentley of Chimills and dyeing factories in New England, at the Galves last night. While cotton is not comma high price now I would not be sur prised to see it so up any time, as the al quotation. At any time some New England mill may begin bidding up. after which the other mills would begin bidding, then the effect would be felt on the New York Exchange, after hours over America.

While it would be foolish to I prediction in the light of the see ingly impossible things that have her pened within the last year, when war seemed an impossibility, I do not think that cotton can decrease in price. In other words, with the situation as it is, I think the bottom has been reached and that any change must be for the better. England may or may not make cotton a contraband. but if it does it could not alter the present situation enough to affect the price."-Galveston News.
